Dear Hiring Team,

I am very interested in this Designer role because it combines product design, visual storytelling, and hands-on prototyping, which matches my background well.

My experience spans branding, interactive design, and digital product creation. I have worked in agency, automotive, and startup environments, where I learned how to turn complex ideas into clear and engaging visual experiences. I am comfortable working on both brand identity and product UX/UI, while collaborating closely with engineers to make sure ideas are realistic, scalable, and well executed.

What attracts me most in this role is the opportunity to shape both the company image and the product experience. I enjoy designing interfaces that are clean, intuitive, and visually strong, especially when the subject is technical or complex. I also actively use AI tools to explore ideas faster, prototype workflows, and improve execution speed.

I would be excited to bring my mix of design, product thinking, and prototyping skills to your team.

Sincerely,
Samy Ayoub Fawaz
